PROFILE

Hello! My name is Corey, a music director turned web developer! I fell in love with development when I first found the missing "<" in my "Hello World" html project. The process of visioning, problem solving, and creating has me hooked. I enjoy learning new technologies and am excited to continue expanding my skillset to create new user experiences. While my coding journey has only just begun, my experience in ministry allows me to bring a collaborative work ethic to teams I join. I thrive in positive, innovative spaces and hope to bring grace, integrity, and creativity to every position I'm in.
